

 BD Rowa® Technologies

Rowa Dose

BD Rowa presents in Italy the Rowa Dose: a completely innovative product for the automatic blistering of solid drugs to be taken orally, prescribed for individual patients according to the therapeutic plan. The system fills blisters with single, unit, multiple and combined doses and prints on them the most important information concerning the patient, the drug and the time of administration. The Rowa Dose is able to prepare many blisters at the same time and continually. The system manages up to 700 containers through which different types of drugs can be dispensed. The drugs are detected reliably by RFID chips and easily replaced as needed. Before delivery, the blisters undergo a quality control through an automated system that analyzes the contents of the individual pouches for each patient. Pouch packaging helps to improve patient adherence to therapy allowing to take drugs in an easy, precise and constant way throughout the duration of treatment and prevents medication errors.

Discovery

DISCOVERY© will help customers to discover the pharmacy and its products. Discovery© intrigues, engages, suggests and creates an unprecedented buying experience.

What's this? It is the system that allows our displays to interact with customers and pleasantly support their shopping. It is equipped with an optical barcode reader and a monitor for communication.

How does it work? Just bring a product close to the barcode reader to obtain information on the monitor, in complete autonomy. Customers will be able to know the price, to understand if that product is what they are looking for or if it is better to ask at the counter for more information. The monitor also allows transmitting an attractive communication (image or video) that can be set remotely.

PHARMATHEK

AUTOMATION TECHNOLOGIES

Doppio Manipolatore Euclid3D

The efficiency and speed of Euclid3D increase with the new configuration with two grippers.

Euclid3D is the exclusive mechanical gripper for automated warehouses equipped with a special temporary storage unit, in which multiple products are stored in order to be delivered to the counter in one go. The presence of this temporary storage unit allows to deliver multi-product orders, processed by multiple operators, but also to speed up the delivery process and increase performances, even in small systems. On average, Euclid3D requires 5 less movements than any other solutions available on the market to deliver an order, and this translates into reduced energy consumption and maintenance costs.

With the new configuration "Double Gripper Euclid3D", all these advantages are even more evident: working in sync, the two manipulators make the performance of the robotized warehouse even higher.

Connected Exit

Connected Exit is a system designed to give the pharmacist the certainty about the n. of products ordered from the automated warehouse, the status of the delivery, the recipient of the order and other values capable of making the delivery phase of the medicines even more efficient.

These values will be shown by Connected Exit to the operator through a small display close to the robot's exit. Furthermore, Connected Exit prevents the gripper from releasing products into the robot's exit until the products of the previous order have been taken. This prevents the products of the two different order to mingle: the operators will not have to waste time separating the products manually and there will be no risk of decommissioning the wrong products.

In fact, with the new EU-FMD regulation, it is fundamental to deliver to the customer the specific packaging indicated by the management software.
